Art Unit: 1761

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-17, 19-25, 29-31, 33, 34, 38-40, 42-54, 57 and 58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Howarth patent in view of Hilgren et al as set forth in paragraph nos. 6-8, Paper No. 030606.

3. Applicant's arguments filed May 29, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's reference to col. 19, lines 42-46 of Hilgren et al is not convincing inasmuch as this portion of Hilgren et al also refers to "toxic chlorinated compounds" and suggests using alternative compounds, as disclosed in Hilgren et al, in place of compounds that present such a toxic problem. However, according to col. 2, lines 20-30 of Hilgren et al, "toxic" refers to excessive chlorination when using hypochlorite as an antimicrobial. Reading both passages in conjunction would lead the skilled artisan to replace hypochlorite with one of the alternative antimicrobial compounds disclose in Hilgren et al. Other chlorine compounds, which are not considered toxic, are not discouraged from use by Hilgren et al. Even if applicant is correct in his conclusion that Hilgren et al teaches avoiding use of all chlorine compounds, Hilgren et al is still properly relied upon for the concept of using a spray probe to treat the inside of eviscerated poultry carcasses with an antimicrobial compound.

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
